KEY

California Evidence Based Clearing House:

S.R.: Scientific Rating. This is a 1-5 scale with 1 being “well-supported” and 5 being the most “concerning.”

R.L.: Child Welfare System Relevance Levels. This scale is Low-High. A low rating means this program serves families with “little or no apparent similarity to the child welfare services population.” Medium rating means this program serves families who are “similar to child welfare populations.” High rating means this program serves families “receiving child welfare services”

Home Visiting Evidence of Effectiveness:

This rating system analyzed research regarding different programs and rated them in three categories: Favorable, No effect, and Unfavorable or ambiguous.

Promising Practices Network:

A “promising” rating means the program has met several different strict criteria, such as statistical significance.

An “other” rating means the program has not gone under full review by this rating system.
